

----- Original Message -----

Subject:Ideological Society Event

Date:Tue, 23 Oct 2012 17:20:13 +0100

From:Rupert Sutton <rupert.sutton@studentrights.org.uk>

To:[Shared] Corp Affairs Press <press@qmul.ac.uk>

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to you from Student Rights, an organisation dedicated to challenging extremism on university campuses. I noticed today that the Queen Mary Ideological Society has announced that it will be holding an event on the 1st November entitled 'Freedom of Speech: The New Double Standard?' but has not released the names of the speakers.

Given that the society has a history of inviting members of the extremist organisation Hizb ut-Tahrir onto the campus, the fact that it is keeping the names of the speakers quiet is slightly concerning. I was hoping that, in line with the university's requirements, the society might have informed the university who the speakers would be, and that you would be able to pass on that information.

Kind Regards,

Rupert Sutton
Student Rights